

NINA CHILSON STASSER, North High Class of 1959

My parents moved to Denver from Goodland, Kansas, in 1948. My father, who worked for the Rock Island Railroad, had been promoted from working freight trains to being a brakeman for the Rock Island Rocket, a passenger train whose western terminal was Denver. We lived at 29th and Utica. I attended Edison and then Brown Elementary (it was brand new when I was in 5th grade), Lake Jr. High, and then North. I went back to North in 1963 as a student teacher from C.S.U., with Ruth Graves as my supervising teacher in choral music.
